

Ingrid Hadley is currently the Employee Resource Group (ERG) Manager for NBCUniversal. She is responsible for cultivating an inclusive spirit of collaboration through her oversight of the ERGs to include 35 hubs in seven regions across the country. In her role, she has the opportunity to work in partnership with 75 leaders to heighten employee engagement by creating professional development, community involvement and cultural experiences for over 8,000 employees. By providing information regarding business priorities and commerce opportunities, she has also enabled these leaders to inspire corporate growth within various business units of NBCUniversal. Also under her purview is the production and management of the annual Impact ERG Leader Summit which hosts over 150 Comcast NBCUniversal employees and promotes leadership enhancement through training sessions, moderated panel discussions and networking. A former ERG hub leader herself, Ingrid has served as the Chair for both the Women's Network@NBCUniversal and Black Professional Alliance.